Mary Washington Takes Pleasure In Welcoming Alumnae Of Fredericksburg At Dinner In Seacobeck Tonight

Reserved Seats Sold Out For "Stage Door"

"Stage Door" is speedily nearing production. This fascinating and absorbing play discloses the trials and tribulations as well as the joys and successes of the various types of girls who are seeking fame and stardom behind the footlights. The cast has been rehearsing four weeks. And with only a week before the performance, the thirty-one members of the cast are carefully perfecting and polishing their roles.

The sale of tickets is in charge of Mary Lou Wilcox, a member of the Y. W. C. A. Her helper is Betty Carter who is in charge of publicity.

Every reserved seat ticket has been sold and the other seats are disappearing rapidly. Probably there will be no seats whatsoever left the night of the play and therefore no tickets will be sold at the door. Definite announcement concerning this will be made later. The curtain on the play, the only performance given this year, will be rung up promptly at 8:00 P. M. on Friday, November 11.

Helen Topp, Sophie Eiserman, Kay Everhart, Doris Jean Snow, Dorothy Graf, Mimi Finnerty and Ann Miller are in charge of the stage setting. This beautiful piece of work has been completed. The sets are in eleven colors which are stiped on a background of gray.

The prompters are Rosemary Rice and Phyllida Bien. Nita Laseter has charge of the properties and make-up will be applied by the members of the class in play production.

In chapel on Tuesday and Friday there will be, via radio, a preview or a skit of certain scenes from the play. This "Radio Trailer" will give to the student body an idea of the plot of the play, and through the microphone there will be heard the members of the cast in their parts.

In "Stage Door" there are many Freshmen who are appearing on the stage of Mary Washington College for the first time. Among

WAR

Brilliant, braided uniforms,
Rousing martial airs,
The muffled tread of marching feet

Smiles so debonair.

Cheers of little boys

To the passing ranks of guns,
The awful throb of heartbeats

Inside their loved ones—
On they march incessantly,

—Polly of humanity!

Dr. Kayser Speaks At Armistice Program

The Armistice Day program, November 11, was presented by the Mary Washington chapter of the International Relations Club. At 11 o'clock, with the blowing of a trumpet everyone stood in reverent silence for two minutes.

The program was continued at 12:30 at the upperclassmen chapel period. Miss Eva Taylor Eppes, Associate Professor of Music and Voice, rendered a solo, America, by Earnest Boch, commemorating Armistice and Professor Elmer Lewis Kayser addressed the gathering. The subject of his speech was, "There Was a Great Battle," taken from the poem bearing that title.

Professor E. L. Kayser is dean of George Washington University, Director of Summer Schools and Professor of European History. He did his undergraduate work at George Washington University where he received his A. B. Degree in 1917. He attended Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities, receiving his Ph. D. from the latter in 1932.

He is the author of several widely known books, among them are: "An Outline of Ancient History in the Near East" and "Grand Social Enterprise."

Professor Kayser is a member of the American Historical Society, American Association of University Professors, Theta Upsilon Omega, Phi Delta Gamma, Omicron Delta Kappa, National Press Association and Cosmos Club.

Professor Kayser is a World War veteran. During the war, he served in the Emergency Hospital and Field Artillery. He was also an officer in the Officers Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor in Kentucky.

these is Manny Black, of Bryan, Texas, who has the role of "Land lady" of the "Footlights Club", where the action of the story occurs. Manny has had a great deal of dramatic experience already as she was a member of the Dramatic Club in High School. As an active member of the Little Theater Guild in Bryan, she had many leading roles, starring in "The Aggies of '38", an original play given by A. and M. College.

Katherine Matthews is a newcomer to the footlights. She is making her debut in the role of Madeline, one of the girls who lives at the club. Among other Freshmen who are appearing in the play are Dorothy Harrington and Dorthela Lewis.

Besides the Freshmen, there are several of the upperclassmen, including such well-known "actors" as Leighton Stevens, Barbara Bryant, and Ann Smith; and "actresses" as Miriam Carpenter, Kitty Roberts, June Stoll, Biddy Miller and Lee Wingate Keith.

Commercial Club Makes Plans For Annual Trip

With the largest membership in its history, the Commercial Club of Mary Washington College met on Thursday night, November 3, 1938 in the college auditorium.

Under the presidium of Concetta Mangus, president of the club, the possibility of an educational tour to Washington for all Commercial Club members was outlined. This trip, the exact date of which has not yet been set, will probably be made in the near future.

Following the regular business session, a program, arranged by a committee with Anne Hazlett as chairman, was presented. Included on the program was an informal address by Dr. Alvey, Dean of Instruction, who discussed the remarkable prospects for commercial majors and minors in the field of teaching and in various secretarial and stenographic positions. Dr. Alvey stressed the fact that the openings for commercial teachers in the state of Virginia, as in other states, are particularly splendid. He urged as many students as possible to arrange to complete the four-year commercial course leading to the B. S. degree.

The program was finished two musical numbers with Elaine Dinan playing the saxophone, accompanied by June Wendell at the piano. After the musical selections, popcicles were served to the entire commercial group.

EVERYBODY'S—DOING IT!

Darlings, your letters have been so grand—just filled with news and things that interest me. I look forward to them every day.

Oh, incidentally, I forgot to mention in my last letter about deficiencies. They are absolutely nothing to worry about. Practically all the Freshmen get them just as a sort of warning. Why, I haven't even thought about them—after all, one has to adjust one's self and chemistry and algebra aren't exactly simple, except, of course, to Einstein or some one like that. Now when you get a report that I'm doing unsatisfactory work in three or four subjects forget the whole thing. I'd just hate for you to worry over anything so unimportant. I spend most all of my time studying now and I'm sure that I'll have mostly A's and B's at the end of the quarter for I do want to be worthy of such intellectual parents as mine.

Do write soon and tell me what you have been doing and all about yourselves.

Your affectionate daughter,

LOTTA BLAH

Banquet Will Feature Monthly Meeting; Senior President Will Give Welcome And Mrs. Sacrey, Jr. Will Respond;

It is hoped that the Fredericksburg Alumni of Mary Washington College will feel that, though they do not make up a part of the student body or administration, they are a part, a very important part, of the college.

I. R. C. Initiates New Members

The International Relations Club held its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday night, November 1. At this meeting the new members were initiated. The plan for initiation was to have the new members divided into two groups, each group presenting a playlet on an international problem. The first group with Doris Staggs as leader gave an interesting playlet on The Munich Conference. The other group headed by Raynell Goodwin presented The Palestine Question. The initiates were then accepted by the club as members, they are Eunice Martin, Jeanette Cooper, Kathryn Wygal, Margaret Jennings, Jane Day, Hilda Clark, Jamie Lee Reynolds, Elizabeth Fay Davies, Maybelle Knoff, Raynell Goodman, Margaret Ramsey, Doris Staggs, Bernice Whipple, Vernelle Grizzard, Eloise Caverlee, Helen Topp, Bess Dobbins, and Helen Heyl.

The club is sending Elizabeth Alexander, Glida Oronoz, Nan Birchett and Betty CLOPTON as representatives to the Southern Conference for Humane Welfare held at the University of Virginia on November 13.

M. W. Alumnae Will Meet In Richmond

The alumnae of Mary Washington College will gather at the Chatterbox in the Hotel Richmond on Friday, November 25, at 12:30 o'clock for a luncheon which will carry out the Thanksgiving theme.

The charge for the luncheon plate will be 75c, all reservations for which are to be made through Mrs. Nannie Mae Williams, College Registrar.

Members of the local chapter of alumnae will be in attendance at dinner on Friday evening, November 11, in the college dining hall.

Tonight Mary Washington College has the honor of entertaining the local alumnae at dinner.

Jeanne Johnson, senior class president, will make a speech of welcome in behalf of the entire college and Mrs. N. S. Sacrey, Jr. representing the alumnae will respond.

It has been a tradition of the college to hold its annual alumnae reunion, but the dinner to-night is an affair specially planned and entirely new.

Tonight immediately following dinner, the regular monthly meeting will be held in the dome room at which time Mrs. N. S. Sacrey, Jr., will preside.

This event promises to be one of the most delightful of the year and the college feels it a real privilege to have the alumnae with them for the evening.

The guests include: Miss Catherine Peery, Miss Marion Heflin, Mrs. Mary Purks, Mrs. Rollins, Miss Pauline McGhee, Miss Irva Young, Mrs. Elizabeth Thorburn, Mrs. E. B. Rosenberger, Miss Eva Taylor Eppes, Mrs. Nannie Mae Morris Williams, Miss Gladys Staples, Miss Goldie Sager, Mrs. Louise Rooche, Mrs. William Johnson, Miss Kathleen Robinson, Miss Ida Robinson, Mrs. Emma Euliss, Mrs. Mason Willis, Mrs. O. H. Darter, Mrs. Darrell Holmes, Mrs. C. B. McDaniel, Mrs. E. H. Sacrey, Miss Edna McCall, Miss Virginia Frazier, Miss Genevieve Mosley, Mrs. N. S. Sacrey, Jr., and Mrs. Frances Rowe.

YOU . . .

—Janet Alston

You, yes, you are the person who makes Mary Washington the college that it is. The day that you set your foot on this campus as freshman, you bring a refinement that is the product of years of training.

Before long, though, you grow careless, even forgetting the niceties that you have been taught all your life.

Can't you imagine sitting down at home and writing on the furniture, for instance, the dining room table? Ridiculous! Yet it is being done to the college furniture. Quite as ridiculous! Just take a glimpse at your desks today—did you make it look like that?

Every freshman looks to the day when she will occupy a lovely Tri-unit room, with the Beauty-rest mattress and maple furniture. Ah! an envious desire. Yet will this furniture stand the treatment that it has received in the passing parade of thoughtless individuals?

Take more pride in your furniture! You live here nine months of a year—it's your home.

Maybe you're just trying to exhibit your surplus knowledge—but can't you inscribe those words on paper, where they belong, instead of on desks, chairs and walls? Try it!

THE SENIOR BENEFIT

Line Up Is Being Lined Up

—Don't Miss It—

January 7th

Elizabeth Denny and Charlotte Anne Ramsburg were home for the week-end. How's the University, gals?

Mary Louise Vanati, of Mary Baldwin College, was the guest of Laura Holman and LaVelle Phipps over the week-end.

Hilda Sager spent the week-end in Woodstock and attended the opening dances at the Massanutten Military Academy.

Rose Sutton left for Pompton Lakes, N. J., on Wednesday to visit her parents.

Sara Branch will spend the week-end in McKenney.

Louise Sykes and Jeanne Rogers attended the R. M. C. dances in Ashland last week-end.

Josephine Ewing will spend the week-end in Newport News.

June Brumback was a visitor in Arlington over the week-end and attended the George Washington inter-fraternity dance.

Lucille Carey of Washington will visit Mary Jane Bacty this week-end.

Jane Haddox, Eleanor Small and Peggy Austin visited Mary Jack Clary at her home in Bowling Green last week-end.

Peggy Thompson, Carol Jorden, and Madara Jorden will spend Sunday in Washington. What's the attraction girls?

Evelyn Theimer and Dot Worton from Charlottesville visited Jean De Cross and Margaret Britton last week-end.

Martha Mingess from the Eastern Carolina Teacher's College visited Mabel Edwards over the week-end.

Maric Summers and Dorothy Grap spent the week-end in Nokesville, Va.

Hilda Hodges was a visitor in Washington over the week-end.

Mary Ellen Seaborne and Polly Stephenson will attend the H. S. R. M. C. game in Ashland on Saturday. May the team win.

Frances Eanes is going to Richmond taking with her her roommate Margaret Elmore.

Jeanne Grant and Jane Waugh are going to Culpeper. We hope they will stick to the straight and narrow road.

Kay Rucker is going home this week-end. Could it be that she is going to try to sign a "peace treaty." Lee and Grant did it in 1865, why not Lee and Kay.

Doris O'Brian is going up to W. and L. to see a football game. She thinks that she will go to the dance that night.

Mariam Carpenter is going to Washington this week-end to visit Sterling Kerr.

Eleanor Small is having as her guest this Sunday "Tickles" Timberlake. There is a reason for everything so that is perhaps the reason Eleanor is a trifle "Ticklish" at times.

Jane Ray Smith is going to Annapolis this week-end. She has been singing "Shipmates Forever" for the past week. Do you suppose she could be turning into a lover of the Navy? Lots of girls do.

Mary Lou Wilcox and Mary Estes are going to Richmond this week-end.

Evelyn Lasley is going to Charlottesville again this week-end. She has a little matter of a "Bill of Affairs". If everything is not successful she plans to have the person in question "Court-Marched."

Joan Tolar is going home to Arlington this week-end. She is taking Kitty Roberts with her. You know Kitty. She has to see "Wake Forest" play—either at "football" or at this game called "love." There is something about a football hero—eh!! Kitty? You should know.

Scoutie Booker goes home this week-end to Blackstone and of her own will.

Courtney Edmond, Lula Bray, Jane Day, Kathryn Wygal and Eunice Martin sail out from the "Hilltop" Saturday for Front

Royal where they will spend the week-end in the home of Gladys Dutton.

Janet Patterson and Glennis Powers spent last week-end at the former's home in Round Hill.

Glennis Powers, Dorothy Vernon, and Mary Lawrence Davenport will attend the Young Democratic Dance at Goose Creek this week-end.

Mr. Gasque A. T. P. Speaker

Alpha Tau Pi will have as its guest speaker Mr. Q. D. Gasque, Principal of Warren County High School, at its next regular meeting on Thursday evening, November 17.

Mr. Gasque is the past vice president of the Virginia Education Association. He is at present a member of the State Committee on Junior High School Curriculum, and the Committee for the Study of Secondary School Standards. Alpha Tau Pi is honored to have him speak.

Science Club

Adds New Members

On Tuesday, November first, the new members were formally initiated into the Matthew Fontaine Maury Science Club. They were: Rhea James, Peggy Snow, Hilda Clarke, Elsie Mae Cornwell, Mary Lee Pittman, Larie Pritchard, Arabelle Laws, Lorraine Holman, Betty Whitacre, Helen Crist, Sue Echols, Mary Head, Evelyn Williams, Margaret Kilian, Audrey Sullivan, Dorothy Smith, Lenore Magill, Margaret Gilman and Ann Smart.

The initiates were entertained with an old-fashioned picnic at the Y. W. cabin. An abundance of food—namely, wieners, rolls, pickles, onions, potato chips, soda and popples, was put before the girls and in no time was devoured. The old members were amused by the skits presented as the final initiation.

Louise Harris, the president, officially welcomed the girls and introduced them to the officers and to the sponsor. Vice-president, Doris Stagg; secretary, Henrietta Shanklin; treasurer, Myrtis Hall and Dr. Cook is the faculty adviser.

Much has been planned for the future of the club. Movies, slides, and eminent speakers on scientific topics will be presented at the meetings, which will be held the third Tuesday of every month.

Freshmen Commission

Elections Completed

Fifteen Girls To Be Organized Under Mary Estes

The Freshman Class elected its commission Tuesday evening. The Commission has been enlarged this year so as to represent the entire class in proportion to its size. Those elected from the class and living on the hill are as follows: Barbara Apple, Nancy Brooker, Gracie Cureton, Mary Dryden, Ruth Duff, Fale Liverman, Lillie Ann McGrady, Anne Miller, Evelyn Osbourne, Sally Phyllis, Ruth Scarlett, and Mary Wilcox. The Town Girls' Representatives boarding in town are Elizabeth Ferguson, Ann Gurley, Ann Pekick.

The Freshman Commission is to be organized as soon as possible. Sunday night, at Vespers, Y. W. is having the Installation Service for these girls. Maude Rae Smith, president of Y. W., and Mary Estes, Freshman Commissioner, will be in charge of the Service. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service and give the new Commission a big welcome which should start them out on a year of fine work.

Fashions For Fair Femmes

When Vogue cried "College kids, which shall we play, Lone Wolf or follow the Leader?" the response came in deafening unison—"Lone Wolf, of course." So Lone Wolf it is and the youngster who wanted to play leader hour has no followers.

But if it happens that you don't know all the rules of the game you're playing, it goes like this:

That double strand of pearls that you folded away so carefully in tissue paper to wear with your sweaters will remain in the tissue paper. Instead you wear a locket, and there is a variety ranging from the quaintest to the most modern, or perhaps a small golden cross. And the chain no longer girls your neck choker fashion, but it is at least seven inches in length and maybe longer.

Sweaters and skirts? Of course—they're indispensable. Every girl on the campus has at least several. But never could you find any two of them alike. In Tri-Unit particularly you will see the Scotch plaid, pleated, skirts and I may add they aren't an inch longer this year than they were last. As for sweaters—there seem to be a few of the long, Brooks type which may be worn backwards, but for the most part they are the short, tip length ones varying in color and weave, with which you wear a pigskin belt. To set off this casual outfit the shoe still highest in the favor of college girls for classroom use is the saddle oxford; though some are sticking strictly to the rules of this game that we started out playing, and these individuals would not have it said that they wear shoes identical with their roommates'. So they wear sandals, pigskin oxfords, alligator ones, blue, red—every conceivable color and material. And the more unheard-of the better!

When it comes to coats, I'm at a loss at generalizing. But perhaps they may be catalogued as to types. To begin, the girl who goes in for wearing casual tweeds with an air must certainly have a rough, tweedy, perhaps Herring bone (which is now in the lead among tweeds) topcoat. Then for those who adapt their coat to their mode of living and their sweater sleeves pushed up washer-woman fashion, there's the ultra collegiate reversible combination of gaberdine raincoat and topcoat designed to be worn carelessly. Still others are the short, boxy, jiggers, the pals types, (still going strong even though they aren't the newest), the flattering lines of the princess cut done in pastel wools, and oh, others and still others that of an will run into on the campus.

And speaking of coats brings me to jackets. For every day, rough and ready wear the popularity of the matching tailored jacket and skirt seems to have waned. In its stead the multi-colored tweed jacket has sprung up—and nothing could give you a more profound feeling of being at college, or a more knowing look of the art of combining practicality with attractiveness. And maybe you haven't noticed yet the exciting successor to last year's beer jacket!!! It came with a decided bang and everyone turned around and looked at it ambled by. It's yellow and it's wooly but the utter fascination of it is in the little felt elephants, Mexicans and sombreros, yale men, good look clovers, and ever so many more, just in a different color, placed close together over the entire jacket. If you wish to get a close up of this discovery you might stand guard at the Frances Willard entrance.

Certainly no one can deny now the influence, of our game. The 1938 Mary Washington girl is a transformed version of the college student of a few years ago. Her hair is no longer a tangled, "railing mane" to be combed only on week-ends, but a page boy, brushed and shining, or a mound of ringlets in true and worthy 1900 manner—the important thing being that it is definitely a coiffure. And her make up job is no longer the result of a hurried delving into the rough pot, but a serious work of art. Also she no longer wears sweaters and skirts to dinner or the opera, appearing as obvious as if she sang in a loud voice the Mary Washington Alma Mater or wore a "pennant across her chest."

So behold, not the sloppy rah! rah! college kid, but the charming, beautiful, poised young woman, equal to anything this twentieth century world has to offer.

TOWN GIRL - GAB -

You should have seen the "Day bootantes" of Fredericksburg in their Sunday best at the Operie in Richmond Friday night. It was one fine 'n dandy sight! Among those attending were Margaret Smith, Eliza Embrey, Elnora Overley, Eloise Caverlee, Jean Scott, Ann Hayes, and Yours truly. Of course, this made the third year some of these damsels had graced the opera.

As in all good reports we should give you a rough idea of the costumes the "Daybs" wore. Miss Smith was resplendent in deep purple satin. With this she wore a ruby necklace, earrings and bracelets (6 of them if you please). Her wrap was a kelly green wool which is quite the rage this season. Her escort very kindly presented her with a corage of salmon colored sweet peas.

Miss Embrey was lovely in coral net. Her jewels were emeralds and her bracelets of jade. Her red velvet wrap with red fox fur completed her costume.

Miss Overley was quite stunning in a vivid shade of orange lame. It blended well with her coloring and her accessories of violet. Her escort had charmingly chosen pink roses and blue forget-me-nots. Her wrap was fashioned of violet velvet.

Miss Caverlee chose an olive green net dress over a variegated satin slip. Scarlet geraniums were in her hair and on her wrists. Her blue sapphire satin evening coat was perfect with this combination.

Miss Scott was very sophisticated in a ruffled taffeta dress in coral. The ruffles were underlined with vivid aqua. She wore large bows of red on her hair and carried a nosegay of purple chrysanthemums. Her wrap of white crepe was handsome.

Miss Hayes was in a white angora evening dress. Needless to say she left a trail around Richmond Friday night. Her wrap was of leopard (the latest sports style). On her hair she wore a Mind if I brag a bit? Those of you who make it a habit to read this column may remember my hint about the little Freshman who was married. You've heard that Lushbaugh has been married almost a year, of course. "Well, I told you so."

So Kay Rucker and Loe have come to the parting of the ways. Just when everything seemed to be going so smoothly, too. I heard it all began when she didn't let him know one week-end when she went home.

Jakie seems to be doing all right as far as Randolph-Macon is concerned. But don't you get them mixed up, Jakie, with two or three going to the same school?

Doris O'Brian seems mighty excited over plans for the two coming week-ends. Could the fact that she's going to see him have anything to do with it?

Who remembers 'way back last year when Leonard Cox and—well, I guess all of you who were here know what I'm talking about. Well, have you seen him this year? Don't tell me that wasn't the real thing.

Wasn't it grand seeing the old girls last week-end? Clarke, Lib, Dottie, Cheatham, Peg, and a lot more—they surely looked good to me.

Anne Parker's going to ring dances at V. M. I. How will you get along without going home at all, Anne? But maybe seeing Alton will make up for it.

And speaking of the Cox boys, which I started a few paragraphs ago, Gordon doesn't seem to be losing any time either. Just look for him in the tea-room any Sunday night.

Here's a tip to those who may hear Winnie talking to a seemingly empty room: She's not really crazy, but she just can't help talking to that new picture of Gus. It's a good thing it isn't a talking picture—the poor boy wouldn't have a chance.

Frances Eanes and Jeanne Johnson were also among those who trucked off to Randolph-Macon last week-end for the dances.

I hear Dinges is getting a little worried because Buddy hasn't called lately. Don't worry, Dinges, he will. Isn't it nice going with a town boy? You can keep up with him so much better.

Who was Baab's young man Sunday? Baab, have you been holding out on me?

Jean McCaffrey has slipped; I just heard Joe has a new girl. Jean, did you feel that you had gotten "The Letter Edged in Black" when you left the post-office?

And how about the time Barbara Gaines made at the V. I. P. A. with Gerry? William and Mary puts out some good products.

What more fitting way to close a gossip column than the tale of the Freshman who says she has thirty boy friends at the U. Va? Why don't you take us all home with you some week-end, Janet Mathews? I wonder what the other girls in Charlottesville do when you're home.

Atlanta YWCA Meet

Mary Lou Wilcox, vice president of Y. W., is going to Atlanta, Georgia this week-end, November 11 to attend the Third Annual Y. W. C. A. Regional Leadership Meeting. She will represent the Mary Washington College student body.

The meeting is to be held at the Atlanta University on Saturday, November 12 and will continue through Sunday. A large crowd is expected to be in attendance and distinguished speakers will be among those present. New ideas concerning Y. W. work will probably be discussed, and Mary Lou will bring these ideas back with her and thus the entire Y. W. association will benefit.

Juniors Upset Seniors 4-2

Well, girls, it's all over—the hockey conference, I mean. It was swell, wasn't it? I don't know when I ever saw so many hockey games in such a short time. I thought I would pass out at the folk dancing class that "The Apple" taught. We kept going 'round and 'round and were completely worn out after the ordeal. Even after all this, "The Apple" was as fresh as a daisy. "Beats me".

Did you see Sweet Briar's team play? I'm sorry if you missed it because they play grand hockey—such good teamwork and cooperation. You specially should have seen their right wing! She's 'bout the fastest hockey player I have ever seen. There were loads of other good hockey players here but I particularly noticed this one. You know that the Virginia and the Virginia Reserve teams were chosen from the college teams that were here for the week-end. The Virginia line-up is as follows:

Virginia

Judd, Sweet Briar, Right Wing.
Lockett, Sweet Briar, Right Inner.

Douglas, W. & M. Center.

Littleton, Sweet Briar, Left In-

Wing.

Walton, Campus Char., Right

Half.

Currie, Sweet Briar, Center

Half.

Half.

Wilcox, Sweet Briar, Right

Back.

Burger, Campus Char., Goalkeeper.

Even though the hockey conference is a thing of the past, we here at M. W. C. must not neglect our own teams. The intramural games have not been completed, nor has the Devil-Goat game been played. The Juniors finished their season Tuesday—they played their last game. I must mention the fact, however, that they finished gloriously! Having won two games prior to their game with the Senators on Tuesday, the Juniors entered the game with the attitude of "got-to-win". And they did! Yessir, they defeated the Seniors, 4-2, to clinch the championship. Congrats to the Junior team—they do deserve it, don't they?

The first half of the game was almost a farce. Since we had had so much rain recently, the players probably could have played better hockey had they been in canoes. The field was composed of one puddle after another. However, during the second half, the teams pulled themselves together and played much better. The game was truly an interesting one, possibly because the championship was involved.

Although the Juniors are champions, the hockey season is not over. The Seniors meet the Frosh on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. This game should prove a most interesting one. The Freshmen have already shown us that they have a mighty team—they gave the Juniors a tough fight. Even after these games are over, there is still the Varsity-Faculty game, which always proves a fitting climax for the ending of the season.

OUR DAILY CLIMB

One finds many things in the course of events here on the "hill" with which one may compare life situations. I was struck the other day upon returning to this campus by the similarity of the paths we tread, literally, to those we follow, or should follow, figuratively.

At the west end of Cornell Street there is a small incline and at the top of that incline is a narrow street called "Sunken Road." How often have we toiled through a quarter of classes only to arrive at exams—those sunken roads of despair! But we can't remain at Sunken Road; there's nothing to do but: us, so we cross and begin another climb. Slowly, wearily at times, yet steadily we climb until we reach our destination: Monroe Hall, perhaps, or Frances Willard or Virginia. So it is in life—fresh from new triumphs over exams we cross these sunken roads and enter a new quarter's work. Thus steadily, quarter by quarter, we travel on until we reach our destination—graduation.

From some places on this campus one can see the dim outlines of distant mountains. So, in life, even beyond graduation, there must be a destination, a purpose as high and noble as the mountains.

Similarly from our daily climb, both physically and mentally here on the hill, we can draw inspiration and courage and with our faces toward the mountains strive—ever upward—ever onward.

DEFICIENCIES MUST BE OUT!

TOWN GIRL GAB Con't.

large "puff" or white angora. She also carried a large white angora muff with trailing ivy.

Yours truly appeared as sloppy as usual, so we won't go into that.

There was a wonderful party at the Westwood Supper Club after the Opera so I'm told. Maybe at a later date I'll be able to tell you about the place. At least I hope so!

In closing I might add that the Opera was simply divine. That is the right hand side of it was. Being in a corner I couldn't say anything about what went on on the left hand side.
